The Doctor Amadu answered very soon :

« Thank you for your kind e-mail sent from the bank. Today, we started a transaction that will improve our life, we must be very careful in exercising caution even more than ever in all that we are doing about the transaction, we must be very discreet in our communication, we can not allow any another person to know the origin of this background, so when he finally hits the bottom of your account, we will invest our fund our minds at rest, but if anyone should know about the transaction, we will not be home when we become successful in the transaction.

As I stated in one of my previous emails to you, I'm here to relay any information that will be necessary for the success of this operation, you should not worry about development now until they approve the fund, all you have to do is comply with my instructions and success is guaranteed.

The bank has already decided that if you send the correct answers to the questions that the fund will be accepted on their behalf, I want you to understand that my position in the bank also has guaranteed success, the bank is acting in a case, its ability to provide all necessary information for the database is a tool for the success of this operation.

A presentation worthy of his person is also a great tool, and you have to adapt to the tradition of care to meet the issue to avoid any error within now that this transfer is at its peak for rapid transfer in to your account giving information's to the bank of Africa management group, and we should not lose any time to avoid any mismanagement of information.

Listen to me dear trusted friend yourself I want you to also be carefully incase you may receive any other similar email like this in your email account as you may know the bank will be sending to your email a similar email just as I have sent to you before, and the are doing this to know if you may reply to nit and that will jeopardize all our effort towards this great project.
