

my novel about Christmas

My novel about Christmas of memory writtten by Elizabeth Langford December 2022

nce upon a time there was a young girl named Elizabeth. Elizabeth was one years old and lived in Scotland , United kingdom. While decorating the Christmas tree in the family room, a pink a fish jumped out from behind a little fairy and tackled Elizabeth to the ground. But just when she was about to let out a scream for help, Elizabeth realised that the pink a fish was only licking her face, not trying to bite it off. At that moment, Elizabeth decided to keep the pink a fish as a pet. Since it was Christmas Eve she decided to name her pet pink a fish " Scheherazade ." Then she heard a noise from the front porch. That's right, it was Elizabeth's mother, Mum. And boy was she surprised to see a pink a fish next to Elizabeth by the Christmas Tree! "What in world is that?" shouted Mum. "It's a pink a fish ," answered Elizabeth. "Dah, I can see that, Elizabeth, but what on earth is it doing here?" said Mum. "It's my new pet!" answered Elizabeth. "Oh you think so do you?" remarked Mum. "I wouldn't get your hopes up. You know how your father hates pink a fish s. But, well, I suppose you can keep him until your father comes home." And with that Elizabeth grabbed Scheherazade by the scruff of the neck and led her new pet into the kitchen--even though she knew her father was probably going to disapprove. Once in the kitchen, Elizabeth and Scheherazade played and played, that is until Elizabeth's favourite television show, "Neighbours," started. At that point Elizabeth forgot all about Scheherazade having an unsupervised run of the house. That is until half way through "Neighbours," when Elizabeth was brought back to reality when she heard her father shout, "getting angry!! Elizabeth! Get your my brother and sister in the my bedroom...NOW!!" With that Elizabeth rushed into the my bedroom to see what all the fuss was about. When she entered the my bedroom, there stood her father, Dad, pointing toward the a chair . "Will someone please explain that?" asked her father. Then, as Elizabeth followed her father's finger to where it was pointing, she instantly knew what her father was so upset about. There, smack dab in the middle of the a chair , was the biggest pile of a fish doo-doo she had ever seen! "I don't EVEN want to know how that got there," said Dad. "But you had better get it cleaned up now! And you had better get rid of whatever it is that could have done such a thing!" Well, knowing her father as well as she did, Elizabeth knew there was no sense even asking her father if she could keep Scheherazade for a pet. So without hesitation, Elizabeth set out to find where Scheherazade was hiding. After a few minutes of looking, Elizabeth discovered Scheherazade crouched beneath the table that Elizabeth did her write a story on. "Come on, Scheherazade , it's time to find you a new home. And hey, don't look at me that way, I'm not the one who did the dirty deed on the a chair !" scolded Elizabeth. "Thanks to you I'll never get to have my own pet a fish !! But Santa was watching the whole scene from beside the fireplace . . . And with that Elizabeth led Scheherazade out of the house and down to the local book shop. They had a pet section and Elizabeth knew the owner would find Scheherazade a good home. So after saying good-bye to Scheherazade , and thanking the owner of book shop, Elizabeth walked backed home and attempted to round her sorrows by slamming down a half dozen calm downs. But Elizabeth's pretty party came to an abrupt end when her father reminded her about the mess she had neglected to clean up. And low and behold, midway through the clean-up, Elizabeth suddenly became thankful that someone else was going to have to do it from now on. And Santa quietly placed a new, clean, stuffed pink a fish under the Christmas Tree for Elizabeth Once upon a time there was a young girl named when Elizabeth . when Elizabeth was the age of one year old years old and lived in in Scotland , in United Kingdom. While decorating the Christmas tree in the family room, a in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tank jumped out from behind a where a little fairy and tackled when Elizabeth to the ground. But just when she was about to let out a scream for help, when Elizabeth realized that the in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tank was only licking her face, not trying to bite it off. At that moment, when Elizabeth decided to keep the in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tank as a pet. Since it was Christmas Eve she decided to name her pet in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tank "was called Scheherazade ." Then she heard a noise from the front porch. That's right, it was when Elizabeth 's mother, when Mum saw her with her brown. And boy was she surprised to see a in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tank next to when Elizabeth by the Christmas Tree! "What in world is that?" shouted when Mum saw her with her brown. "It's a in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tank," answered when Elizabeth . "Dah, I can see that, when Elizabeth , but what on earth is it doing here?" said when Mum saw her with her brown.

"It's my new pet!" answered when Elizabeth . "Oh you think so do you?" remarked when Mum saw her with her brown. "I wouldn't get your hopes up. You know how your father hates in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tanks. But, well, I suppose you can keep him until your father comes home." And with that when Elizabeth grabbed was called Scheherazade by the scruff of the neck and led her new pet into the kitchen—even though she knew her father was probably going to disapprove. Once in the kitchen, when Elizabeth and was called Scheherazade played and played, that is until when Elizabeth 's favourite television show, "while Neighbours on the telly," started. At that point when Elizabeth forgot all about was called Scheherazade having an unsupervised run of the house. That is until half way through "while Neighbours on the telly," when Elizabeth was brought back to reality when she heard her father shout, "with an angry face to!! when Elizabeth ! Get your and her brother and sister were there in the in her bedroom...NOW!!" With that when Elizabeth rushed into the in her bedroom to see what all the fuss was about. When she entered the in her bedroom, there stood her father, when Dad was very busy , pointing toward the who was sitting on a chair. "Will someone please explain that?" asked her father. Then, as when Elizabeth followed her father's finger to where it was pointing, she instantly knew what her father was so upset about. There, smack dab in the middle of the who was sitting on a chair, was the biggest pile of where a fish was swimming in the fish tank doo-doo she had ever seen! "I don't EVEN want to know how that got there," said when Dad was very busy . "But you had better get it cleaned up now! And you had better get rid of whatever it is that could have done such a thing!" Well, knowing her father as well as she did, when Elizabeth knew there was no sense even asking her father if she could keep was called Scheherazade for a pet. So without hesitation, when Elizabeth set out to find where was called Scheherazade was hiding. After a few minutes of looking, when Elizabeth discovered was called Scheherazade crouched beneath the table that when Elizabeth did her where her favourite hobby was writing stories on. "Come on, was called Scheherazade , it's time to find you a new home. And hey, don't look at me that way, I'm not the one who did the dirty deed on the who was sitting on a chair!" scolded when Elizabeth . "Thanks to you I'll never get to have my own pet where a fish was swimming in the fish tank!! But Santa was watching the whole scene from beside the fireplace and with that when Elizabeth led was called Scheherazade out of the house and down to the local buying her a book. They had a pet section and when Elizabeth knew the owner would find was called Scheherazade a good home. So after saying good-bye to was called Scheherazade , and thanking the owner of buying her a book, when Elizabeth walked backed home and attempted to round her sorrows by slamming down a half dozen calm downs. But when Elizabeth 's pretty party came to an abrupt end when her father reminded her about the mess she had neglected to clean up. And low and behold, midway through the clean-up, when Elizabeth suddenly became thankful that someone else was going to have to do it from now on. And Santa quietly placed a new, clean, stuffed in a pink dress where a fish was swimming in the fish tank under the Christmas Tree for when Elizabeth Once upon a time there was a young girl named Elizabeth . Elizabeth was the age of one year old years old and lived in in Scotland , in United kingdom. While decorating the Christmas tree in the family room, a in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas jumped out from behind a the little fairy and tackled Elizabeth to the ground. But just when she was about to let out a scream for help, Elizabeth realized that the in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas was only licking her face, not trying to bite it off. At that moment, Elizabeth decided to keep the in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas as a pet. Since it was Christmas Eve she decided to name her pet in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas "Scheherazade was very quiet ." Then she heard a noise from the front porch. That's right, it was Elizabeth 's mother, where Mum was watching her all this time. And boy was she surprised to see a in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas next to Elizabeth by the Christmas Tree! "What in world is that?" shouted where Mum was watching her all this time. "It's a in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas ," answered Elizabeth . "Dah, I can see that, Elizabeth , but what on earth is it doing here?" said where Mum was watching her all this time. "It's my new pet!" answered Elizabeth . "Oh you think so do you?" remarked where Mum was watching her all this time. "I wouldn't get your hopes up. You know how your father hates in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas s. But, well, I suppose you can keep him until your father comes home." And with that Elizabeth grabbed Scheherazade was very quiet by the scruff of the neck and led her new pet into the kitchen—even though she knew her father was probably going to disapprove. Once in the kitchen, Elizabeth and Scheherazade was very quiet played and played, that is until Elizabeth's favourite television show, "where Neighbours was finished for Christmas," started. At that point Elizabeth forgot all about Scheherazade was very quiet having an unsupervised run of the house. That is until half way through "where Neighbours was finished for Christmas," when Elizabeth was brought back to reality when she heard her father shout, "with an angry face!! Elizabeth! Get your with her brother and sister in the in her bedroom...NOW!!!" With that Elizabeth rushed into the in her bedroom to see what all the fuss was about. When she entered the in her bedroom, there stood her father, when Dad came home with a book in his, pointing toward the on a chair. "Will someone please explain that?" asked her father. Then, as Elizabeth followed her father's finger to where it was pointing, she instantly knew what her father was so upset about. There, smack dab in the middle of the on a chair, was the biggest pile of where the fish was forward to Christmas doo-doo she had ever seen! "I don't EVEN want to know how that got there," said when Dad came home with a book in his. "But you had better get it cleaned up now! And you had better get rid of whatever it is that could have done such a thing!" Well, knowing her father as well as she did, Elizabeth knew there was no sense even asking her father if she could keep Scheherazade was very quiet for a pet. So without hesitation, Elizabeth set out to find where Scheherazade was very quiet was hiding. After a few minutes of looking, Elizabeth discovered Scheherazade was very quiet crouched beneath the table that Elizabeth did her writing a story on. "Come on, Scheherazade was very quiet, it's time to find you a new home and hey, don't look at me that way, I'm not the one who did the dirty deed on the on a chair!" scolded Elizabeth. "Thanks to you I'll never get to have my own pet where the fish was forward to Christmas!! But Santa was watching the whole scene from beside the fireplace and with that Elizabeth led Scheherazade was very quiet out of the house and down to the local from the book shop. They had a pet section and Elizabeth knew the owner would find Scheherazade was very quiet a good home. So after saying good-bye to Scheherazade was very quiet, and thanking the owner of from the book shop, Elizabeth walked backed home and attempted to round her sorrows by slamming down a half dozen was trying to calm downs. But Elizabeth's pretty party came to an abrupt end when her father reminded her about the mess she had neglected to clean up. And low and behold, midway through the clean-up, Elizabeth suddenly became thankful that someone else was going to have to do it from now on. And Santa quietly placed a new, clean, stuffed in her lovely pink dress where the fish was forward to Christmas under the Christmas Tree for Elizabeth Once upon a time there was a young girl named Elizabeth. Elizabeth was she was a year old years old and lived in in Scotland, in United kingdom. While decorating the Christmas tree in the family room, a in a pink dress where the fish was floating in the fish tank jumped out from behind a the little fairy and tackled Elizabeth to the ground. But just when she was about to let out a scream for help, Elizabeth realized that the in a pink dress where the fish was floating in the fish tank was only licking her face, not trying to bite it off. At that moment, Elizabeth decided to keep the in a pink dress where the fish was floating in the fish tank as a pet. Since it was Christmas Eve she decided to name her pet in a pink dress where the fish was floating in the fish tank "Scheherazade was sitting." Then she heard a noise from the front porch. That's right, it was Elizabeth's mother, Mum wanted to say she has a little cousin called Florence. And boy was she surprised to see a in a pink dress where the fish was floating in the fish tank next to Elizabeth by the Christmas Tree! "What in world is that?" shouted Mum wanted to say she has a little cousin called Florence. "It's a in a pink dress where the fish was floating in the fish tank," answered Elizabeth. "Dah, I can see that, Elizabeth, but what on earth is it doing here?" said Mum wanted to say she has a little cousin called Florence. "It's my new pet!" answered Elizabeth. "Oh you think so do you?" remarked Mum wanted to say she has a little cousin called Florence. "I wouldn't get your hopes up. You know how your father hates in a pink dress where the fish was floating in the fish tanks. But, well, I suppose you can keep him until your father comes home." And with that Elizabeth grabbed Scheherazade was sitting by the scruff of the neck and led her new pet into the kitchen—even though she knew her father was probably going to disapprove. Once in the kitchen, Elizabeth and Scheherazade was sitting played and played, that is until Elizabeth's favourite television show, "where Neighbours will be back on after Christmas," started. At that point Elizabeth forgot all about Scheherazade