

The Man of the HouseChapter

Thank you for taking the time to read if you have any comments please send them to me directly at this email: smartwork66@outlook.fr
please visit my sales site: <https://payhip.com/digitalshophorizonfin>

1: The Announcement - A Life Changed

Lucas trudged up the familiar path to his front door, his backpack weighing heavily on his shoulders. It had been a long day at school, and all he wanted was the comfort of his own room. As he reached for the doorknob, a peculiar sense of unease crept up his spine. Something felt different, but he couldn't quite put his finger on it.

Pushing the door open, Lucas found his mother, Sarah, sitting in the living room, her hands folded neatly in her lap. She looked up as he entered, a tentative smile on her face.

"Lucas, honey, I'm glad you're home. We need to talk."